THE FIRST INDIAN CRAFT BEER

Moksha Amber Lager is the first Indian craft beer. Its unique taste was created by a home brewer in India. The recipe was brought over and produced here using local ingredients. You will find a complex and balanced taste which pairs well with the spices of Indian and South Asian cuisine.
